

ABSTRACT

The present invention is a consumer product packaging system comprising at least one consumer product wrapped in a UV--protective thermoplastic packaging film. At least 5 one of the consumer products wrapped in the UV--protective thermoplastic packaging film has a brightness value wherein the brightness value of the consumer product changes about 5 percent or less during an exposure to light for a period of about 12 months or more.